THE UNIVERSITY OF THE SOUTH

International and Global Studies

The International and Global Studies Program at The University of the South invites applications for a tenure-track position to begin August 2012. International and Global Studies is a fast-growing interdisciplinary major seeking candidates with an active research program and teaching interests in past or present processes of globalization as these occur in particular parts of the world.

A strong preference will be given to candidates who focus on globalization in the Middle East, or Africa or South Asia with thematic interests including, but not limited to, global/local interactions related to health and health care policies, the experiences of labor in a globalizing economy, and/or subaltern perspectives.

Successful candidates will have a strong commitment to teaching in and curricular planning of the program's core courses, and will have the opportunity to develop new thematic courses in areas of his or her expertise.

The University of the South comprises a highly-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. It is located on a striking, 13,000-acre domain on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau.

Candidates should have a Ph.D. or ABD with promise of completion by August 2012 in any social science or humanities field. Please send a cover letter, c.v., brief writing sample, sample syllabi, evidence of teaching excellence, a graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation via email to:

fachire@sewanee.edu with subject heading: "IGS Search."

Applications received by October 20, 2011 will receive full consideration. Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful completion of a background screening.

*The University of the South is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
Minorities and women are encouraged to apply.*
